PUB HISTORY

This place is a proper neighborhood pub, where people from all walks come to gather. The original Silver Moon Tavern opened two doors south, waxing and waning from 1935 to 1974. The operation then moved to the present location, in what was once a five-and-dime shop. After a decade of wild nights with the biker crowd and rock 'n' roll by the likes of Sleazy Pieces and Brown Sugar, the moon began to fade. In 1985, McMenamins took over stewardship of this storied spot. A new Blue Moon rose, where it continues to cast a warm and friendly glow over NW Portland's Alphabet District.
