PUB HISTORY

Welcome to Cornelius Pass Roadhouse & Imbrie Hall. The impressive Italian Villa-style house, built in the mid-1860s for Robert Imbrie, replaced the farmstead's original 1840s log cabin. Six generations of Imbries lived in this venerable home; the last family members moved out in the 1970s. When McMenamins first leased the lovely old house and a small amount of land around it in the mid-1980s, part of the agreement was that they had take care of the grounds. So every time they cut the grass, they'd mow a little farther and farther out, until the barns were encompassed within "their" property! Eventually, McMenamins took ownership of the entire lot, including the house, lawns and outbuildings, thereby saving the property from being the site of yet another generic motel.
