PUB HISTORY

This idyllic bedroom community with its rolling hills, plentiful shopping and proximity to wine country was named by Money magazine as "among the top 50 best places to live in the U.S." in 2013. But back in the late 1800s, things were different 'round these parts – Sherwood (then called Smockville) was "a tough town," with "rowdiness and drunkenness," where "gunplay was not unusual and street brawls were common." No need to worry about that anymore – we welcome you with open arms, cold beer and a kilted frog playing bagpipes! Our amphibious mascot has no logical connection – artist Jenny Joyce explains, "I went through a stage of portraying animals playing music. The McMenamin kingdom loves music, especially bagpipes, so that is why there are frogs playing music." Cheers to that.
