OUR HISTORY

Built as the National Cash Register Company pavilion for the 1905 World's Fair in Portland, this domed structure was meant to last just six months. Over 100 years later, it certainly has defied the odds! Back in 1905, it drew thousands to see one of the first publicly displayed motion pictures anywhere. McMenamins acquired the historical pavilion-in-miniature in 1998 and today, continues the tradition of screening movies under the dome!
