PATTY MURRAY

Patty Murray was once denigrated as “ just a mom in tennis shoes” by a fellow legislator, but she turned that slight into her battle cry, challenging herself and those around her to make a difference regardless of political savvy. She grew up in Bothell in a family of nine and attended Anderson School in the 1960’s. In 1992, she ran for Congress and despite being dramatically outspent , Murray was elected to the United States Senate, becoming Washington’s first female Senator. We raise our glass to Senator Murray -- not only for her career as an effective and trustworthy politician, but as a woman, mother, and advocate of the Pacific Northwest.
