OUR HISTORY

Turns out we're on an avenue, not a street like we named it. (Oops.) But it's been 31 years and people keep finding us! Have a look at the mural by McMenamins artist Joe Cotter (1949–2012) of the Oregon Country Fair, held every July since 1969 in nearby Veneta, OR. "I was trying to get the feeling of what the Fair's like," Joe explained in 2010. "There's a lot of creative energy – performance art, music, spoken word, activists. A lot of people see it as a renewal." You might recognize the Flying Karamazov Brothers, Artis the Spoonman, Baby Gramps, the Mud People, Ken Kesey, Tom Noddy the bubble guy, the Holy Modal Rounders and many others – including Joe Cotter himself. "I'm there playing the trumpet. I actually put myself in. I never do that." This mural (along with hundreds of others throughout McMenamins' properties) is a colorful reminder of Joe's incredible talent and presence.
