In 1923, The Oregonian remarked, “There is perhaps no course in the United States that is so truly similar to the famous home course of modern golf, that of the Royal and Ancient Golf club, at St. Andrews in Scotland. Both courses run parallel to and within a short distance of the ocean, both are constructed on turf that has reclaimed former beach sands and both are lined with great sand dunes.”

Today, Gearhart Golf Links retains its true links style and flavor, with vastly improved turf conditions and amenities.
